

HAND IN HAND
THE DOMESTIC
EMPLOYERS NETWORK

Supporting Immigrant Domestic Workers in Washington: Conversation Tips

Reminders + Tips to Take Home

Don't ask about or assume the person's immigration status. They may choose to share this in the course of the conversation, but omitting reference to it gives them space to make that choice.

Don't assume their political beliefs. Early on in the process of trust-building, stay focused on the impact of policies, rather than on your or their feelings about political leaders. They may share their feelings and political beliefs in the course of conversation.

Share from your own personal experience. For workers, this is likely a difficult and vulnerable conversation to have with their employer. While a power differential is inherent in the relationship, humanize it by sharing some of your own story and vulnerability. You might want to share what's both hard and important to you in this moment, what you care about, or even your or your family's experience during similarly hard times.

Reflect back what you're hearing and validate feelings. While the purpose of these conversations is to offer concrete support to the person you employ, it is also to build trust and deepen relationships. Remember that, for those of us not targeted by the current wave of anti-immigrant policies and sentiment, this conversation is a time to decenter our own feelings of fear and to offer calm, grounded presence to those who are.

Offer concrete support. Depending on your relationship and on their circumstances, the person you employ may or may not have specific ideas for the support they need that you could provide. Offering concrete support ideas can help the receiver clarify what they need and how they want to receive it and from whom. On the next page is a list of concrete support ideas employers may consider offering to the people they employ. Note: Do not offer what you're not confident you can provide.

Ideas for Concrete Support

→ Increasing Workplace Safety & Flexibility

- ◆ Know your responsibilities under the law in WA
 - Seattle Domestic Workers Ordinance
- ◆ Be a fair care employer
- ◆ Provide extra paid time off and/or advance pay
- ◆ share the accommodations you're making and resources you're using with people you know who employ the same worker
- ◆ Give rides to and from work or provide funds for safe transport
- ◆ Offer entry to your home for people who are working outdoors, especially if ICE is active in the community

→ Sharing information & Resources

- ◆ Print copies of Know Your Rights and legal information
 - Help identify or secure an attorney or legal help as needed
 - Find legal help through the Immigration Advocates Network's directory at <https://www.immigrationlawhelp.org>
 - Help them avoid fraudulent "immigration assistance"
- ◆ Use of home printer or copier for anything your employee needs

→ Support a Network of Mutual Aid

- ◆ Provide or purchase groceries, toiletries and other needed items so that they don't have to make extra trips to the store
- ◆ Accompany them and/or their children, if asked, to school, court dates, events, and other sensitive locations

HAND IN HAND

THE DOMESTIC
EMPLOYERS NETWORK

- ◆ Invite your neighbors to be part of your network to get children safely to school and adults safely to and from work and other engagements
- ◆ Get trained with WAISN to provide rapid response support

→ Help Create & Support an Emergency Plan

- ◆ Print and help fill out a Family Preparedness Plan that might include taking on a role
- ◆ Contact employee's family and/or emergency contacts if needed
- ◆ Ensure emergency contacts are up to date with you (the employer) and at their children's school(s)
- ◆ Create a sheet of emergency numbers and documents for easy access
- ◆ Act as an emergency contact
- ◆ Pick up their children from school or another location
- ◆ Help them complete and prepare an "Intention of Care for Minor Child" form